

Intro to Docuplates

---

Docuplates allow common sets of document items to be saved as a group so that they can be reused later. Similar in nature to templates, Docuplates can contain a pre-formatted SOAPnote for aiding in documenting an encounter. This capability is useful for documenting common conditions or frequently repeated encounters, eliminating the need to recreate the same collection of document items each time.

User Tip: Docuplates can be created from almost any document in SOAPware, including SOAPnotes; Flow Sheets; Labs; Drawings; Summary, etc.